Conflict Minerals Policy

24.05.2019

- We, as Arpek, adopt policies and indirect customer specific requirements for the responsible supply of minerals from high-risk areas affected by conflict. These policies require companies to disclose whether the products they manufacture or contract to manufacture contain conflict minerals (Tin, Tungsten, Tantalum and Gold) that are necessary to the functionality or production of those products.
- As Arpek, we support the rules on the termination of violence and human rights violations in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the neighboring countries, which can be financed by proceeds from the trade in these minerals. In this context, we are committed to comply with all applicable terms and conditions.
- Arpek will work with our customers cooperatively in connection with their conflict minerals programs, and we also expect our suppliers to support us in implementing the necessary conflict minerals compliance programs and in making conflict mineral declarations where necessary
